We believe that in every culture in the world, especially ancient knowledge, there are life lessons about the wisdom and way of life for humans to harmonize with nature.
People should not forget that in this life. And if we know and understand about the ability of the human mind, before we take action, we must think of something and it's actually been an act of mentally.
Some people think it's about the end of the world, but we believe this is more like a cycle in which there purification of the earth. Natural disasters that happened was a natural action that automatically serves as a counterweight, though also how the situation really balanced it is something that is absurd back to the song '2012' in simple way: disasters are made by people, people mind gone wild, certain collective unconscious was formed then it changes the world, the nature, and when people broke the balance limit, so the nature it self take over it, to bring back the harmony ... and then after the "good period of life" it would be happen again, and again and again ... A cycle, never ending, just like 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11 12 and so on ... bla bla bla (infinite). the year 2012 is not the end of the world, its just a part of the cycle ... and we're so happy to have a chance to face it.
